

Page 4, Section 6 HOUSTON CHRONICLE Sunday, July 19, 1970

Photos by Blair Pittman, Chronicle Staff
Friendly dinosaur apparently emerged from Lawrence Marcus' pool to greet (l to r) Jim and Betty Davis and Morgan J. Davis.

Friendly Green Monster Emerges From Loch Marcus

BY BETTY EWING
Chronicle Staff

Orchids in his greenhouse, art treasures in every room of his showplace home — and — hold it, is that a dinosaur that emerged from his swimming pool?

Gadzooks, that DOES qualify Lawrence Marcus as the man-about-everywhere who has everything!

However, that familiar green diplodocus (how about that, dinosaur fans!) only temporarily displaced the interesting lady sculpture by Ludwig Dürckanek, Sinclair's Herb Rantington loaned it to the Houston Museum of Natural Science Guild for a party to stimulate interest in the forthcoming "Dress the Dinosaur" benefit.

Mr. Marcus was host to members of the committee and the executive boards of the Guild and Museum since Neilman-Marcus will be presenting Designer Pauline Trigere in person at the showing of her fall collection on Sept. 8 at the handsome Museum.

Even Sinclair's dinosaur is a vanishing breed. Since the company merger with Atlantic Richfield, the trademark is being changed to something a bit less cumbersome — although it only weighs a mere 75 pounds.

Houston's Museum is the lucky beneficiary of one of five real McCoy's in the entire world — on purchased by the Junior League back in 1960. An Andrew Carnegie originally dug it up in Wyoming (that's where they all come from) and the Cleveland Museum bought it only to discover its building wouldn't accommodate a monster that raises its head to a height of 20 feet and stretches out about one-third the length of a football field.

So the far-seeing Junior League of Houston got it at a good price — $15,000 — knowing, naturally, that Houston one day would have the perfect spot for it. Sure enough, comfortably ensconced at Alfred Glassell Hall, it will be eye level to visitors on the second level.

Talented, young Jim Davis, a geologist with Humble and honorary curator for the Weiss Hall of Petroleum Science, is chief articulator of the dinosaur. He was at the party along with his beautiful Betty, who also digs the dinosaur along with sewing and painting (she'll have her first one-man show soon). Other members of the Davis clan at the party Morgan J., former chairman of the board at Humble and now a member of the Museum executive committee, and wife Veta and their No. 1 son Morgan Jr., here from Corpus Christi where wife, the former Rada Lee Kerr, was holding down the fort.

Also at the party were Museum President and Mrs. Charles Fleetwood and other members of the executive committee, Little Knapp and husband Al, Tom Martin Davis and wife Dorothy, Edd B. Turner Jr., and wife Polly, Robert H. (Rennie) Baker (his father, the late Burke Baker, donated the fabulous Planetarium) and wife Betty, George T. Strake Jr., and wife Annette, Marian Ball and husband Lewis, immediate past president Bill Black and wife Claire, Dr. Thomas E. Pulley, director of the Museum and member of the committee, was in Key West, Fla. for a meeting of the Shell group of the Malacological Union but represented at the Marcus party by wife Jeanne and son Robert, Kinkaid's headmaster John Cooper was busy rehearsing his role in Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado." Other members of the board are Albert B. Fay, E. Clyde McGraw and Dr. Sidney Schurr.

Officers of the Guild are Marian Ball, Mrs. Peyton Barnes, Mrs. F. Adolph Meyer III, Mrs. Ben B. Turner, Mrs. J.R. Cravens Jr., Mrs. Edward O. Gayler and Mrs. Edmund K. Doak (Stacy, recently the principal, along with Dr. Ed, is a rescue at the bay from their swamped sailboat, wet properly wearing a shiny black pantsuit referred to as wet!).

Members of the "Dress the Dinosaur" committee are Mesdames George Alcorn, Robert H. Baker, Lewis Ball, James Paddle tennis courtiers at the pre-"Dress the Dinosaur" benefit party—(l to r) the Lewis Ball and the George Alcorns.

C. Reese, James R. Cravens Jr., Marshall Crawford, James Davis, Morgan J. Davis, Tom Martin Davis, Harold Daniels (post-deb Gayle Garth was a member of the Junior League committee that purchased the dinosaur), Albert Bel Fay, Thomas O. Shander, Charles Fleetwood, Alfred C. Glassell Jr., William G. Guerriere, James J. Johnston (Charles and husband Jimmy, the Farm and Ranch president, were in San Antonio for a 441 event), Alfred J. Knapp, Max Levine, Meredith Long, Richard R. McKay, Marvin R. McMorrey Jr., Joseph Nalle, Edward G. Pearson and Andrew Jackson Wray.

Marke Goette, in charge of N.M.'s food service, drove all the way from Dallas with the fabulous tidbits like roast beef and Sauce Bernaise that will be served at the party in September. N.M.'s Richard Lee put the party together and the organization also was represented by Kay Fretter, Cary Marcus, recently arrived in Houston, Mary (Mrs. Jerome) Simas, Alex she's a pretty girl! Pruit, Ben Heller.

Also at the party: Maude Bullington, Agnes Pearson, Irene Day in a fabulous purple catlan.

Museum of Natural Science President Charles Fleetwood and Mrs. Fleetwood.

LANE BRYANT Juniors

AREN'T YOU GLAD SOMEONE FINALLY PUT THOSE GREAT JUNIOR LOOKS IN SPECIAL SIZES? LIKE THIS 100% DuPONT DACRON/POLYESTER PANTSEMBLE BY BODIN KNITS LTD. IN RED AND WHITE OR NAVY AND WHITE.

'45
SIZES 15 TO 25, THE JUNIORS THAT START WHERE OTHER JUNIORS END

DOWNTOWN, 1225 MAIN
Open Monday and
Thursday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

THE VILLAGE
Open Thursday
10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

NORTHWEST MALL
Open Monday Through
Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

ALAMEDA MALL
Open Monday Through
Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

What Next?

Miss Eros
CAPEZIO
SAYS—
THE NUMBER 1
SHOE FOR SUMMER
NATURAL CORK SHOES WITH TOPS IN SHINING WHITE OR BLACK AND WHITE
STATUS PYTHON
PATENT.

CHOOSE YOUR CONVENIENT CHARGE ACCOUNT: VOGUE'S REGULAR OR RUNGET, SHOPPERS CHARGE, BANKAMERICARD, OR MASTERCARD

Vogue shoes

AUDITIONS' GRACEFUL, FEMININELY SOFT, FOOTNOTE FOR FALL IS HERE NOW—IN TWO-TONE CRINKLE PATENT, BLACK/BROWN, OR TAN/BROWN. ALL STORES, 20.95

SHOP AUDITION HEIGHTS '70'S DOWNTOWN, '70'S A MYSTERIOUS FUTURE TOWN
FALLS CENTER, '70'S DOWNTOWN, '70'S A MYSTERIOUS FUTURE TOWN