

WEEKEND

Places to go and things to do — this weekend, some of them free.

Rough, tough rugby

The southwest's largest rugby weekend, the Seventh Annual Lone Star Rugby Tournament is Saturday and Sunday 8 a.m.-5 p.m. at the Rice University Athletic Fields. Forty teams from all over the United States will be here. Houston teams in the tournament include the Rice University Rugby Club, Bours Rugby Club, Houston Rugby Club, Old Boys RFS and Strikers Athletic Club.

The tournament is free.

LaSalle, the Frenchman

Now, we all know that LaSalle checked out the Mississippi from Canada to the mouth. But did you know that he founded the first European colony in Texas almost 100 years before the American Revolution? In 1685 LaSalle left his Fort on Matagorda Bay and headed for an earlier settlement he had founded in Illinois.

Along the way, LaSalle was slain by three of his own men near the present town of Navasota, Tex. This is background, so you'll understand why Navasota is having LaSalle Day Saturday. Saturday happens to be the old explorer's 332nd birthday.

There is a public ceremony at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the LaSalle Monument on Washington Ave. They will have color guards and a file and drum band. To get to Navasota, take U.S. 290 west to Hempstead, lead north on Texas 6.

Meet diplotocus

If you haven't met diplotocus, the Houston Museum of Natural Science dinosaur, you might want to stop by and say hello Saturday or Sunday. Museum hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and 7:00-9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Diplotocus is very rare—there are only four other specimens like him in the world. The skeleton was found in 1902 by a Carnegie Museum party. He comes from the Red Fork of Powder River in Johnson County, Wyo. About 60 per cent of his original bones are preserved. He stands 12 feet high at the hips, he's 70 feet long.

His reconstruction has been five years in the making. He's the only dinosaur ever put together with the help of a

Lone Star Rugby

They're at play this weekend at the Rice Athletic fields.

Today

SEX, FRANKLY SPEAKING

By MARGUERITE R. SHEARER, M.D., and MARSHALL L. SHEARER, M.D.
Knight News Wire

Q — There is a big snag in our marriage and sexual relationship that I believe is common to others: I know I can be aroused, if my husband would just put a hand on me — a loving gesture, something outward to make a woman feel she matters outside a bed. Doesn't a man realize that an affectionate gesture turns a woman on? I am in my 50s now and I ask myself if my husband really is interested in having sex with me anymore or if he excuses his own disinterest with the fact I am no longer young? — L.R.

A — There are degrees of willingness to have sexual relations from eagerness to reluctance. A wife who has sex just to accommodate her husband may have an accepting willingness or — more commonly — may feel used, resentful and have a reluctant willingness.

Unfortunately, many men don't realize the importance to a woman of a touch, a gesture of affection, free of bedroom connotations. Traditionally in our society a man's sexuality always has been honored. A man is sexual first and social second. On the other hand, females have been taught to be social first, and only in a social context is their sexuality honored.

This difference is largely unrecognized, but it has caused many feelings of rejection. Your need and request for touching outside the bedroom — the social closeness — is a prerequisite for your feelings of sexuality. Your husband may not comprehend this need; he wants to be sexual first and then social.

This conflict is very common in our experience. For example, a salesman who has been out of town all week, misses his wife, and is eager to be with her and feel close to her. She misses him, too, and wants to be close. When he arrives home at 11 p.m., they embrace in the living room. He leads to the bedroom for sexual intercourse and closeness — computer. The museum is in Hermann Park.

The 2:30 p.m. film there is "Rabbit Hill." Both are free.

World Living Festival

The World Living Festival is three days (it started Friday) of authentic exhibits, entertainment, food and wine tasting—all designed to highlight the culture, folklore and heritages of people around the world. Saturday hours are noon to 11 p.m. Sunday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. at the Astrodome. Admission is $2, adults; 10 cents, children. It is being sponsored by The Houston Post, Astrodome and Sakowitz.

Especially for the kids

The film "Island of the Blue Dolphins" rolls at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Museum of Natural Science, Hermann Park. It's free.

Ellen Baker, a creative dramatics instructor, is doing two improvisational drama workshops for children ages 6-10 Saturday at the Contemporary Arts Museum. The first workshop is 2-2:30 p.m., the second 3:30-5. Workshops are limited to 15 children. For reservations call 528-6803.

"Miss Toole-oo" is still doing fairytales at 11:30 a.m. Saturdays at the Houston Public Library, 500 McKinney.

The third annual herb fair is 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at 3376 Inwood Drive.

If you go, they will give you a free cup of Tranquillity. You will see free demonstrations and you can try some of

The way he was... before they finished diplotocus

An herb fair

The third annual herb fair is 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at 3376 Inwood Drive.

If you go, they will give you a free cup of Tranquillity. You will see free demonstrations and you can try some of their goodies—Chinese Won Ton, cakes, cookies and breads. Proceeds go to the Herb Gardens, Hermann Park and the Arboretum.

Christmas bazaars

Palmer Montessori School, 5510 Greenbriar is having a holiday bazaar 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday. They will have books, for children and adults, baked goods, plants, recipes, children's quilts, stuffed toys and stocking stuffers.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority's holiday helpers bazaar is 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday at St. Philips Presbyterian Church, 4807 San Felipe. They will have gift items, a sorority cookbook, homemade breads and fruitcake.

Holy Trinity United Methodist Church's Christmas bazaar is 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday at 1207 Orleans. They will have baked goods, homemade items, jewelry, plants and gifts.

The St. Pius X High School Student Council is having a Christmas sale 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday and noon-5 p.m. Sunday at 811 Donovan. They will have Christmas cards, posters, decorations, stationery, candies, knitted articles, ceramics, plants, baked goods and a gift wrapping service.

The 2nd annual Festival of Things

Please see Weekend/Page 6B

Please see Sex/Page 6B

Saturday SPECIALS at Sakowitz

These exciting values are for one day, Saturday, only. Quantities are limited, so no mail or phone orders, please.

ALL STORES

Famous maker raincoat at 40.00 savings one day. Smashing. How you'll look in our distinctive double breasted navy raincoat imported from England... Men's Clothing Shops. Was 160.00. NOW 119.95

Sakowitz presents a show of shows at the World Living Festival, November 21-23 in the Astrodome.

ALL STORES

Their favorite canvas shoe, specially priced at 7.99. Popular army duck upper with "U" throat construction, side trim. Navy, gold, red. 12 1/2-2 youths' sizes; 2 1/2-6 boys; medium widths only. Children's Shoe Shops. Compare at 12.50. Special 7.99

DOWNTOWN ONLY

Our custom crafted espadrille, reduced Saturday. Fashion's favorite, perfect look for pants and skirts. Soft leather with rope braiding-covered wedge, bouncy crepe sole. Amber, beige, brown or navy. Not all colors in all sizes. Designer Shoe Salon. Was 39.00. NOW 24.90

DOWNTOWN AND POST OAK

Leisure suiting, European style... now at 50% savings. The look is lean, with body tracing top, saddle seat pant. Blue-mint and tan. 36 to 42 sizes. Countdown Shops. Was 50.00. NOW 24.90