All Dinosaurs Please Report To...

BY BETTY EWING

Oh, the fossilized hip bone's articulated to the leg bone and the leg bone's articulated to the knee bone, etc. Get the rhythm? Young James Davis, a geologist with Humble Oil and moonlighting curator of the Harry Weiss Hall of Petroleum Science, does. He and his crew already have started the bones rolling on the dinosaur at the Museum of Natural Science. The dinosaur skeleton, a diplacodon, is the Junior League's gift to the Museum and the Museum Guild members sold cookies and other baked goodies to provide money for the "articulation and construction."

Jim was the special guest recently at a coffee honoring new members of the Guild at the home of Mrs. Victor L. (Alyce Lee) Morris on Timber Lane. His pretty wife Betty is one of the new members. Incidentally, Betty and Jim design furniture and their Christmas present to each other was a latte. He's the son of Morgan Davis, past president and chairman of the Development Council of the Museum. Others to whom the Museum is no new family project are Cecile (Mrs. Wayne) Hardin and Susan (Mrs. Bruce) Moore, daughters of the late John Flade, a past president of the Museum. Margaret (Mrs. George) Alcorn, daughter-in-law of Charles Alcorn, another past president of the Museum. Two former Junior League representatives to the board of the Museum—Mrs. Richard K. (Emily) McKay and Mrs. James (Charles) Johnson—also are members of the Guild. And others are Mesdames M. C. Caldwell, Marshall Crawford, Winona Crawford, F. T. Fendley Jr., George Jewell Jr., Carl E. Lee, J. R. Maxfield III, D. W. Neuen-schwander, Robert E. Nixon, J. R. Perout, Wallace Shanks and Jake Hershey.

New honorary members of the Guild are Mesdames George Strake Jr., Tom Martin Davis Jr., George De-Montford Jr., William G. Guertie and Hugh W. Stephens. Louise (Mrs. Edward O.) Gayland is new members chairman and Marlene (Mrs. Lewis D.) Ball is president.

And speaking of dinosaurs, there should be a large herd up for grabs in the near future. Society Oil these merged with Atlantic Richfield is putting the old familiar green fellows out to pasture.

Houseboat Stranded In Mid-Lake

Let Tres Gals, an organization of young sophisticated career females that usually looms in a rarefied club atmosphere, sniffed salt air for a change.

LITs wound up the season with an informal gathering at the Watergate Yachting Center at Kemah, enjoying a seafood buffet from a dining room with a sweeping waterfront view of Clear Lake.

Former member Jan Marsh and husband Bob arrived via houseboat and on the second sightseeing trip the seagoing bus ran out of gas and had to be towed in by a friendly yachtman.

Outgoing chairman Carmalee DeGeorge was presented with a sterling silver engraved gavel from the group and lady lawyer Sandra Foster made the presentation.

Attractive UH statistician prof Susan Schemis is the new chairman and her officers and board are secretary Ginger Hamilton, treasurer Madeleine McDermost, Kay Beckett, Joyce Testa, Marilyn Macari, Jean Whitman, Camille Coulter, Cheryl Madison, Mary Beth Jackson and Barbara Eaves. Carmalee's date was Donald Starckweather of San Antonio and Susan was escorted by Jerry Maley. Also among the 100 members and guests were Jane Small and Bob Wright, Faye Dabney and John Collins, Bepi Forward and Jim Whiteheart, Jody Thayer and Gil Parr, Betty Bralley and Jay Cragg, Carolyn Gist and Phil Santamaria, Betty Zank and Chuck Adell, Sammie Abbin and Larry Glickin, Jody Hoagland and Harry Bristol who'll wed on June 27, Ann Pitter and Jim Reed, Lib Schmidt and George White, Camille Coulter and Jay Castille, Norma Frey and John Rademold, Jean Whitman and Bob Milled, Mary Kay Mooney and Mickey Edwards, Carol Andrews and Larry Martin, Madeleine McDermost and Jim Davis, Camie Lamm and Larry Roden, Marilyn Todd and David Hamilton and Alice Campbell and Bob Haney.

WITH MAURINE PARKHURST

Mr. and Mrs. Claud W. Carter Jr. spent the weekend in Waco with her mother, Mrs. Beth Mills, and Claude's mother, Mrs. C. T. Gray. Sgt. John E. Wilkins, who has been stationed at Ellsworth Air Force Base in Rapid City, South Dakota, and wife, Linda, have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wilkins, and Linda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Leonard. When he leaves here the latter part of May he will return to Rapid City for processing incident to reporting to Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio where he will remain prior to departure for Ratchaphani, Thailand. During his absence Linda will reside with her parents.

Mrs. Sayles said she'd already found a beautiful white linen mild with bright red bell, high-waisted, that she'll wear to the opening of the Horse Show Monday night. And at least two of the Texas Children's Hospital Volunteer past presidents had already let horns out on the coral uniforms they wore—Mrs. Fred Binko, and Mrs. William Holland.

Be Right

By Elizabeth Post

SHUFFLING SEATS
DEAR MRS. POST: A thousand apologies if I'm wrong! When a woman attends a dance and she puts her purse on the table while dancing, may she assume that is her place and her chair, and that others should know that she will return shortly from the dance floor? Is it mastery for the woman to ask for her seat back when she returns?
—Janet

DEAR JANET: A purse left on the table does indicate that the place is taken, and generally serves as a "reserved" sign. However, when the whole table gets up to dance, and some may wander off to the bar or to visit at another table, seats are often shuffled around. Frequently the girl's dancing partner may wish to join her at the table for a chat or a drink after dancing. Therefore, rather than make an issue of sitting in the same place, you are wiser to pick up your purse (assuming that this is after the dinner hour) and sit down with someone you would like to visit with yourself.
